Community Partnerships:

The mission of CJFF is to support women artists in a variety of ways. In addition to screening work during the festival, we hope to promote female filmmakers by creating an archive of films and showcasing work on local TV stations. The archive will serve students at Stephens College, the second oldest women's college in the US, and support its growing film department. In addition, because of CJFF's exciting community partnerships, we are able to screen work on local TV stations. We can create tailor-made contracts that specify when and how your work is screened. If you are interested, but need further details, please contact us!

Submission Requirements

- ✗ Please include a DVD or VHS copy (NTSC format only) of your submission. (If you require a different format, please contact us).
- ✗ Please label your DVD disc or VHS tape with title of film/video, entrant's name, and contact information. For DVD's, please use a permanent marker to write directly on the disc or use a professional DVD label that covers the entire disc. Please do not attach stickers to discs as they can damage our computers/players and may make discs unreadable.
- ✗ Online submissions should be completely posted by the time your submission form is sent. You can post your work on the video-hosting site of your choice (i.e. YouTube, Vimeo, etc). The video should be clearly named with your name, the title of the film, and if possible, include a short synopsis. If submitting online, please send an email to Neeley Current, the Youth Media Coordinator, with a link to your video and a copy of the completed submission form attached (as a .doc or .pdf file).

Because of the high volume of entries, submission copies will not be returned. You will receive an email about programming decisions no later than October 1, 2009.
